

ABSTRACT

5

The present invention relates to a cosmetic process for treating wrinkled skin, by topical application to the skin of a composition containing, in a physiologically acceptable medium, at least one secondary or tertiary carbonyl amine of formula (I):

(I)

15

The invention also relates to a novel family of carbonyl amines, and also to compositions containing them.